Laws Relating to Newspaper Subscription and Arrears.

In response to a request, we give the law as it stands relating to newspapers and subscribers:

1. If subscribers who do not give express notice to the publisher, he is held responsible until they continue their subscription.

2. If subscribers order the discontinuance of their periodicals, the publisher may continue to send them till all arrears are paid.

3. If subscribers neglect or refuse to take their periodicals from the office to which they are directed, they are held responsible until they have settled their bills, and ordered them discontinued.

4. If subscribers move to other places without informing the publisher, and the papers are sent to the former direction, they are held responsible.

5. Any person who receives a newspaper and makes use of it, whether he has ordered it or not, is held in law to be a subscriber.

6. If subscribers pay in advance, they are bound to give notice to the publisher, at the end of their time, if they do not wish to continue taking it; otherwise the publisher is authorized to send it on, and the subscriber will be responsible until express notice with payment of all arrears is sent to the publisher.

FLEETING JOYS.

Times goes in for funny freaks.

Man's a toy he likes to play with;

Notice how he lines our cheeks,

Mark what glees he makes us gray with Pleasure comes to soothe our hearts;

Often, like the rose 'tis prickly;

Soon its radiance departs—

Happy moments vanish quickly!

Supposing you, by Fate's decree,

Love a girl and long to greet her,

Don't the minutes seem to be

Lead-weighing until you meet her?

When the hour arrives at last,

And all care away you banish,

Then the tyrant travels fast—

Happy moments quickly vanish!

Here upon this earthly ball

Joy awhile will make us gayer,

But when sorrow gives a call

Often times she proves a "stayer."

Hope, then, swiftly glides on—

Fragrant are the flowers thou pickest.

Soon, alas, their bloom is past—

Happy moments fly the quickest!

Never mind, we needn't groan;

Tear-drops, shower-like, refresh us;

After all, we're bound to own

Joy is like a sweetheart—precious.

Cast away regrets and sighs,

Though our cares beset us thickly,

Happy moments let us prize,

Even though they vanish quickly!

RESTORING A HUSBAND.

One pleasant morning in the fall, I was sitting alone in my office, conning over a brief I had just prepared for a case then pending, when I heard a knock on my door, and in walked a young woman, with a pleasantly sad expression of countenance, carefully dressed, who desired to know if I could transact a little legal business for her. She immediately seated herself, and after some hesitation began her story.

It seems that her husband, who was given to turns of extreme dissipation, had deserted her of his own accord, and she had heard nothing of him for a number of years. At first she was unwilling to believe that his absence was anything more than temporary,

as he had at several times forgot his obligations to her in this way; but, finding it became protracted, she entertained fears for his safety. Thoughtless of his wife's distress of mind, and caring whether she ever received tidings of him or not, he followed after his own inclinations, and led the life of a vagabond. She gave her name

as Mrs. Malloes.

"Henry," said she, "was once my all in all; and I love now as much as I ever did. I pity him so!

Poor woman! How much she was to be pitied here!

"I have earned a living for myself and little girl ever since I was left alone. Besides that, I have bought a little plain furniture, and put some thing into the Savings Bank."

"He has been gone several years,

you say?" I asked her.

"Yes sir; he must have been, in order to give a poor woman like myself anytime to lay aside a little money."

"I suppose you wish to secure your savings then, against—"

"Yes sir; he must not have them! It will never do! Think of my child!"

I told her what the laws was, and regretted that such a law was tolerated on the statute book.

She looked at me as if she wanted to tear the leaf out of the statutes.

"I knew how it was," said she, "and for the purpose have prepared to take a step that otherwise I never would take in the world. I must obtain a divorce."

I studied her countenance well, for it challenged my scrutiny then. It was that of a brave and noble woman, who from duty and principle makes a sacrifice whose greatness the world can never measure.

"I wish it could be avoided," said she; but how is it possible? Even if he returns and claims what I have saved,

before a separation is legally effected,

he can take it without any power of mine to prevent. Is it not so?"

I was obliged to confess that it was.

"Then," said she, with a sad resolution, "This step must be taken. It tears my heart, but I will do my duty to my child."

I therefore took such data from her lips as enabled me to bring a petition before the proper court. While I sat making the memorandum, she threw in various exclamations of sorrow at the state of things with her, that excited me with unusual sympathy. I know that lawyers are not apt to be the most sentimental of men. But here was a case to challenge, in many of its connecting circumstances, the sympathy of any living creatures. I did not hesitate, accordingly, to render the poor lady a full measure of my better feelings in return for her sorrow.

"Poor Henry," she would say. "I loved him so much! I can't but love him yet! How can I forget those early days!"

The safest way for me was, while she talked thus, to hold my head down as closely as possible to my paper. At some points of her story, I do not believe I could have looked her in the face without helping the unhappy creature along with tears of my own.

"When we were married," said she again, "I didn't think of days like these. I wouldn't have believed it if my best friends had told me they were to come. I loved Henry, and I know how truly then he loved me. But he has been led astray. He never would do this of himself; some one else must have led him into it."

After a time I succeeded in collecting all the facts from her that were necessary to the business, and pushed back from the table. She once more inquired,—

"I cannot prevent him from taking all except by bringing the action for

divorce?"

"I see no other way," I told her.

"Then," said she, with a heavy countenance, "the matter is settled forever.

I am to live and die alone. Good day, sir; I loved Henry before he took to these courses. Ah, sir I love him

now. I would rather make any sacrifice, if I could thus avert this dreadful step."

She took her leave of me sadly, as if she were passing out into the dark shadow of a cloud.

I sat undisturbed in my office for several hours ruminating on the hard case that he had just been presented.

I thought within myself it was a fearful matter thus to divorce husband and wife forever, when, perhaps, happy circumstances might yet intervene to reconcile their differences; and I felt it worse than all that a law should be allowed to stand on the pages of the statute book, which drove an unprotectected woman to petition for a divorce in order to save her property.

BARRETT & ROBERTSON EDITORS.
WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 14, 1876.

Let the Editors do not assume responsibility for the views of correspondents. All communications must be accompanied with the names of their authors, and be written only on one side of a page of paper. Where it is not desired, the name of correspondents need not appear in the paper, but must be in the possession of the Editors.

We will in our next issue give full official returns of the election.

We delayed this issue one day in order to get sufficient news of the election from the various states, to publish the results.

There will be a Grand ratification meeting at the Courthouse Saturday night. Speeches will be made by prominent speakers and a good time generally. Let all turn out.

Speaking at Rockport.

Last Saturday evening we visited the pleasant little town of Rockport, in company with Messrs. HILL, JOHNSON and HUBBARD. We attended the speaking at night. The joint discussion between Col. O. P. JOHNSON and Capt. SAM E. HILL, which was only a pleasant debate between two clever gentlemen. Col. JOHNSON led off and indulged in some very logical arguments. The Col. was followed by Capt. HILL in a speech of one hour, which was eloquent, patriotic and full of vim. All, in all, it was a pleasant affair. Much to the credit of the speakers.

The meeting was well attended. The ladies turning out, almost en masse. If the Col. made a vote; we don't know it; or if the Captain changed a vote; we don't know it.

The New Collector.

To-day Jesse R. Reno, Esq., the late collector of internal revenue for this district, turns over the office, books and papers to Colonel O. P. JOHNSON, his successor, and the collector's office will be established at Hartford in lieu of at Greenville, as heretofore. Though there has been no complaint against Mr. Reno, as we have heard, the distillers seem well satisfied with him, still in the change there is nothing lost. Colonel O. P. JOHNSON has filled the position before and with satisfaction to the district, and will doubtless do it again. —Owensboro Monitor, Nov. 1st.

To Correspondents.

We have local correspondents in the various precincts of the county, but "writing for the newspapers" seem to be with many so serious and undertaking as to frighten them out of even trying to see what they can do; and we therefore publish the following instructions, which we clip from a contemporary.

From these our correspondents can see just what kind of items an editor likes, and how simple and brief a letter may be.

We are satisfied that those who can write at all will be enabled, by these directions, to furnish us a very interesting letter every week.

Accidents—When you write of accidents, give us names of parties, when, physicians in attendance, &c., and how serious.

CARRY THE NEWS.

We Met the Foo, and They Are Ours.

TILDEN ELECTED BEYOND DOUBT.

SPECIAL FROM THE COURIER-JOURNAL.
12-25 A. M. Nov. 9.

Tilden's election considered certain. Florida gives him twenty-five hundred majority, which makes one hundred and eighty eight votes. Louisiana, Dem.

Gratuitous "Puffs."

The commanding tone adopted by many when asking for favors is particularly refreshing. Men are constantly dogging editors to puff them and to say all sort of pretty things about them. Every time they move or say anything, they appear to imagine that the publisher of a newspaper has nothing else to put into his columns but to advertise gratis the small fry who are getting up this, and that, and that the editor can write a column or so about them. Yet they never think to offer any pay for such notices. It does not occur to them that it costs anything to run a newspaper, and that those who set the types, or who work in the editorial room or counting-room, have to be paid for this labor, or that it costs anything for the paper and ink used; yet people will meet the poor publisher on the streets, or the reporter, and demand that they have a notice that they will give a concert for the benefit of the chap who runs the machine, and they never thank you for the hundred times you have in the past, praised them far beyond their deserts. These humbugs are mad, all through, if you do not accede to their demands, even if they do not so much as take the paper and pay for it. They are not all such, but some of the upstarts put on airs and swell like toads, and intimate that if you do not do so and so, they shall withdraw their patronage, and then will they go about and denounce the proprietors of those papers who do not hold these nincoms in such high estimation as they do themselves. They are dogmatical and full of conceit, destitute of gratitude, and will not so much as thank you for past favors. Why should not publishers be paid for their services the same as other people? Why do not these same people go into a boot and shoe store and demand that the store-keeper shall give them a pair of boots or a pair of shoes, or make a similar demand or a hat merchant, or a tailor, or of a ready-made clothing dealer? There would be just as much propriety in this as there is in asking a puff of a newspaper publisher without pay. We are always ready to do and perform a kindness when in our judgement, it is deserved, but we do not propose to be forced into gratuitous and fulsome puffs of all who make money out of the public, and who are indebted to newspaper publishers for the notoriety which they have obtained.

SECOND DAY'S PROCEEDINGS.

Meeting called to order by the President, the convention opened in the Subordinate degree. The committee on state of the Order, reports as follows: We, your committee on the state of Order, would respectfully submit the following:

There are four lodges represented in this convention with members as follows: Rock of Safety Lodge, No. 14 68 members, the lodge in good working condition. Taylor Lodge No. 8, 24 members. Newton Lodge No. 410, 56 members, the lodge in good condition. Mt. Pleasant Lodge, No. 887, 52 members, the lodge in good condition, showing a representation of 200 members. We would suggest to the convention and urge the necessity of having a county lecturer appointed to visit the lodges and deliver a lecture, the expenses of the lecturer to be paid by the lodge visited.

S. W. ROLL,) Committee.
FANNIE NEWTON,)
WM. HAMILTON, Sr.)

Motion made and seconded that the report be received and the committee be discharged, motion carried.

Wm. Hamilton, Sr., was unanimously elected as county lecturer in accordance with the suggestion embodied in the above report. Motion made and seconded that the sum fixed to defray the lectures expenses be $5.00, and the lodges failing to pay said sum or amount, to pay what they can and the balance be made up by the next convention, motion carried.

The committee on resolutions report as follows:

Resolved 1st.—That we recommend the selection of a county Deputy whose duty it shall be to visit the lodges and encourage the work and visit the neighborhood were lodges have ceased work and endeavor to reorganize.

Resolved 2nd.—That we recommend that the lodges procure Temperance Books of dialogues, recitations &c., for the purpose of exercising in the lodges publicly.

Resolved 3rd.—That the thanks of this convention is due and is hereby extended to the Worthy President for his faithful and efficient manner of presiding over the deliberation of this meeting and to the worthy Secretary for the faithful performance of his duties. Be it also resolved that the thanks of the delegates from abroad are due and are hereby extended to the members of Newton Lodge for the hospitable manner in which we have been entertained. Be it also resolved that a copy of the proceedings of this convention be sent to the Hartford Herald and to the Good Templars Advocate for publication.

J. B. HINCHEE,)
BENJ. NEWTON,) Committee.
VOLNEY TAYLOR)

The above report was received and the committee discharged. The books and papers and manuscript of the convention were placed in the hands of the Secretary who was ordered to revise and prepare a constitution and make report at the meeting of the next convention.

Place for holding the next convention was next in order, and Rosine was designated as the place and the time set was the 22nd and 23rd of December, 1876.

Motion made and seconded that Brother Chapman's name be enrolled as a delegate representing Riverside Lodge. Carried. Addresses for the good of the Order by Brothers Hamilton and Roll, after which, the convention adjourned to meet with Mt. Pleasant Lodge, No. 887, at Rosine, on Friday and Saturday, December 22 and 23, 1876.

WM. HAMILTON, President.

JOHN J. PARKE, Secretary.

Sunday-School Convention of the Davies County Baptist Association.

This body convened with Sugar Grove Church, October 27, 28 and 29. The attendance was moderately good; Dr. J. S. Coleman was elected moderator and T. E. Richey Secretary. A constitution and rules of order well calculated to promote the best interests of the convention were adopted. Dr. Coleman offered a preamble and resolutions providing for the election of a general superintendent to supervise the Sunday-school work in the hands of the Association and for the appointment of an executive committee to do the business of the convention till its next session. This preamble and these resolutions were unanimously adopted and T. E. Richey, H. D. Brown, J. H. Cottrell, W. Moberly and Dr. F. M. McGrader, were appointed executive committee. Resolutions were passed pledging a hearty co-operation of the members of the convention and requesting all members of the different churches to also cordially co-operate with the general superintendent and executive committee in the great work before them. With their assistance, much can be done; without it, very little.

The convention was an interesting one and a high degree of interest was manifested in the Sabbath-school cause. The next session is to be held with Green Briar Church commencing Friday before the first 5th Sabbath after February, 1877. The following is the programme, and all parties interested should clip it out:

1. Introductory sermon—T. C. Stackhouse.

2. How can the dreary monotony of the Sunday-school be avoided and an unabated interest be maintained—Prof. S. T. Lowry.

3. What importance is to be attached to the study of the Bible as a text book or history, doctrine, and practical truth?—J. S. Coleman.

4. How may the adult population be more generally brought under the influence of Bible instruction?—J. M. Peay.

5. What are the obligations and responsibilities of each member of the church to the Sunday-school?—W. P. Bennett.

6. Is the general tone of Sunday-school literature at the present day sufficiently spiritual?—J. D. Arnold.

7. Why should every Baptist Church sustain a Sunday-school of its own?—B. E. Cosby.

8. To what extent should denominational doctrines be taught in a Baptist Sunday-school?—R. R. Gabbert.

9. How far is it the duty of Baptists to acquaint themselves and the rising generation with the religious errors of the age?—W. Stevens.

10. How can Baptist Sunday-schools be best established in destitute neighborhoods?—D. H. Brown.

11. When, if ever, is a Baptist Church justified in maintaining a union Sunday-school?—B. Y. Cudiff.

12. The blackboard, for what purpose, by whom, and at what time to be used?—J. A. Shackelford.

13. The Sunday-school as an agency for the suppression of vice, Intemperance and Sabbath desecration—A. N. Whittinghill.

14. Sunday-school music—Its attractiveness, quality and spiritual importance—B. F. Swindler.

15. What scripture authority is there for the Sunday-school work?—T. E. Richey.

16. Can any one be indifferent to the Sunday-school cause without personal loss and guilt?—J. J. Reynolds.

The Ovensboro Monitor, Hartford Herald and McLean county Progress are respectfully requested by the convention to copy. T. E. Richey, Secretary.

General Local News.

PERSONAL.—Mr. E. Small left for the East to-day, for the purpose of bringing on a new stock of Goods.

"BECK" MORTON, arrived Monday, from his visit to Charleston, Mo. "BECK," for some unknown reason did not tarry long.

MR. Z. WAYNE GRIFFIN and WIFE, and DR. SAM. L. BERRY and WIFE, have just returned from the Centennial. They left last Monday week and returned yesterday; they went the Lake Shore Route, and visited Niagara, and saw everything. We will give full details in our next.

CORRECTION.—One of our composers made us say last week that E. Small sold Flannels for 75 cts., when it ought have been 25 cts. The community will be more contented when they learn that that composer has been hung.

He who would succeed must work, but work with a purpose; that is staple, a purpose that is pure, a purpose that is ennobling, a purpose, the accomplishment of which will place his initials among the immortal names, that leave behind them the sweet memory of departed worth.

SUNRISE IN SOUTH AFRICA.—Suddenly a golden tinge seemed to fall like a flash on the vapors of night; then scudded away directly, as jackals before the lion; the stars paled, and with one incredible bound the mighty sun leaped into the horizon, and rose into the sky.

In a moment all the lesser lamps of heaven were out, though late so glorious, and there was nothing but one vast vaulted turquois, and a great flaming orb mounting with eternal order to its center. —Charles Reade.

Public and Private Schools.

After all, the much vexed questions as to the comparative efficiency of public and private schools, resolved itself simply into the question of which was the best teacher. It then becomes a question of individual schools not of classes of schools. Where we find a teacher of strong personal character, there we find a good school, and we must industriously labor not to repress but to develop individuality in the children, if we would make powers of them.

THE case of the Commonwealth against John H. Austin came up before Judge Gregory, on Monday last, upon a charge of obtaining goods under false pretenses, from R. W. Barnes.

Brooks Leach executed his note to the defendant for two dollars and sent him to George Thomson, (of color) who owed Leach, to get the money on the note.

Thomson paid Austin one dollar and sixty cents and Austin returned it as not being sufficient to pay the note. Thomson, the day following sent Austin the money again, who concluded to keep it and apply the amount to another debt which he claimed that Leach owed him and then traded the note to Barnes who brought suit against Leach and failed to recover judgement and sued out the warrant.

The case was full of conflicting statements and hard swearing and the defendant was discharged. Walker & Hubbard appeared for the defendant and displayed in a striking manner the force and effect of a skillful cross examination under the fire of which some of the witnesses for the prosecution broke down.

As a matter of kindness we call the attention of someone who occupies the important position of road overseer, to a mud hole in the Rockport and Hartford road near Peter Ashby's. We are abundantly satisfied that the lower stratum of the next world will be largely made up of Ohio county road overseers, and hence we dislike to call to their troubles here below, but the way in which a prominent republican lawyer and the editor of this paper pulled through that mud hole, was a caution—a word to the wise is sufficient. The Grand Jury is only sleeping, not dead.

The Actual Illiteracy of the Country.

There are in the States of Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Michigan, Indiana, Wisconsin, Illinois, Minnesota, Iowa, Nebraska, and Kansas, an aggregate of 1,354,205 illiterate persons over ten years of age. In the Pacific States and in the Territories there are 102,594. In the Southern States there are 4,187,735.

These figures seem to indicate that there is danger ahead. The vast number of illiterates in the South, should cause us to put forth renewed efforts in to causes of universal education.

From Spring Lick.

SPRING LICK NOV. 3, 1876.

Having just returned from a visit to Hardin county after an absence of a few days, I have concluded to give you the benefit of the observations I made during my sojourn among the good people of Hardin.

I arrived at East View on Friday afternoon it being my objective point, on the L. P. and S. W. R. R., and procured a quadruped, in the shape of a mule from my clever friend and merchant, Mr. Bert, and immediately I was wending my way in the direction of the White Mills which place I reached just as the sun had sunk behind the western horizon. Here I remained over night the guest of Mr. Nelson.

White Mills is a small town situated on Zolli river and about two-and-a-half miles from the L. P. and S. W. R. R. Before the railroad was built through the county a vast amount of business was transacted at this place, but the railroad being so near to it, much of the trade which formerly had, now goes to East View. The flouring mill owned by Mr. Dan. Wortham, the prince of millers, I was informed, is doing a thriving business. This mill makes as fine flour as any mill in the State. I would here take pleasure in recommending it to all parties wishing good flour, and at the lowest market prices.

Next morning I called on a few of my old friends and at 10 o'clock. I mounted my steed and proceeded in a Southerly direction and the next place of any special note, I came to, was Akers Valley. Here I was the guest of Mr. John Henry Akers, largest farmer west of the L. & N. railroad, in the county. This valley is owned by three brothers whose names are Akers, and is regarded the best adapted to the growth of wheat, corn and grass, of any in the county.

During my sojourn here, I could not refrain from congratulating these brothers on their wisdom and good judgement, in purchasing and settling in this valley. They are industrious and enterprising farmers, and richly deserve the patronage and high esteem of all first-class business men.

While the guest of the Messrs. Akers mentioned above, I will remark that I had the pleasure of making the acquaintance of his beautiful and accomplished daughter, Miss B. I found her interesting in conversation and the embodiment of all that is attractive and noble in woman.

The wheat in this section of the county, yielded abundantly, and the corn crop is a fair average one. The farmers, as a class, are all intelligent and business men, and with fair seasons making a large surplus, over and above, their actual necessities.

After completing the object of my visit to this portion of Hardin county, I again mounted my steed and it was not long before I reached the Railroad preparatory to taking passage on the train.

Lest the object of my visit should provoke an inquiry from my legal friend at Litchfield, I will here state that I was electioneering for votes, but not for Hayes and Wheeler.

Do you take The Sunny South?

If not, send for it immediately. It is the universal favorite, and all Southerners are proud of it. Let a large club be raised without delay in this community. It is the only illustrated literary weekly in the South, and the press and people everywhere unite in pronouncing it the equal in every respect of any similar publication in America. The best literary talent of the whole country, North and South is writing for it, and it has something each week for all classes of readers. Its stories are superior in literary merit, and equal in thrilling interest, to those of any other paper, and its essays upon all subjects are from the best minds of the age.

In addition to thrilling new stories, a series of brilliant articles will soon begin on the CAMPAIGNS AND BATTLES OF THE ARMY OF TENNESSEE, by COLONEL B. W. FROEL, a distinguished military engineer of that army in all its trying times. These papers will explain all the movements of Generals Johnston Hood and Sherman. Don't miss any of the numbers. They will read like a fascinating romance.

New and exciting stories are beginning every week or two.

State and local agents are being appointed everywhere, but let each community form a club at once and send on for the paper. Having passed successfully through two of the hardest years we shall ever see, it now challenges the admiration and unlimited support of the people. The price is $3 a year, but clubs of four and upwards get it for $2.50. Address Jno H. SEALS, Atlanta, Ga.
